

END OF PROBE IS VERY NEAR

Assemblyman Domachowski Of Milwaukee, Pricks Bubble Of The Bribery Story.

SAYS IT WAS ALL ONE GREAT JOKE

Told Fellow Member He Had Been Offered $1500 Just For The Fun Of The Thing--Davidson May Be Called To The Stand.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., April 8.—The Wisconsin senatorial election probe was resumed today by the examining of the state fire marshal as a witness to the distribution of $175 of Stephen Davidson's money, also of Deputy Game Warden S. B. Richman, who contradicted State Warden Stone's statement of the distribution of $2,500 of Stephen Davidson's money. Itchinnan gave $50 to Governor Davidson's campaign fund but did not know it was for the governor's fund when he gave it, he said.
The investigating committee decided to call on Governor Davidson to explain the gift of $1200 made to him by State Game Warden Stone was raised by the deputy wardens.
The governor is at his home in Soldiers' Grove, and will be subpoenaed unless he comes voluntarily.
That story told by Assemblyman Domachowski about having been offered $1500 to remain out of the United States senatorial election so as to accomplish the election of Senator Stephenson was a joke.
Assemblyman Domachowski declared on oath last night before the senatorial primary investigating committee that the remarks he made on the afternoon and night of March 4, to the effect that the Stephenson election by his absence when the vote was taken, was a "joke," told as a joke in a joking manner, that no sensible man could have taken it otherwise, that he believed no one who heard it believed it was other than a joke, that he felt the reporters to whom he repeated his joke thought it was a joke because they did not generally print it.
There is all there is to this horrible current of gossip and rumor about vast fortunes being given to Democrats in the senatorial election, and the convention in order to accomplish the election of Senator Stephenson, through reduction of the total number of votes cast to a number such that the vote would be a majority. Assemblyman Domachowski voluntarily told the fact to the committee last night. He explained that on two successive days before the election of Senator Stephenson had been reported in a La Crosse paper to the effect that he was attached to the Stephenson wagon, that he, and perhaps other Democrats, had tried of voting for Neal Brown and David S. Ross and other leaders of the "un-terfied" and would assist the Stephenson Republicans in every way possible, by remaining in the chamber when the anti-Stephenson people wanted to break a quorum by staying out, by ducking out of the chamber when the Stephenson people wanted to break a quorum by staying out, and in fact in any way other than to directly vote for Stephenson, which was impossible for a Democrat to do without bolting his party. This report, said Mr. Domachowski, made him mad, very "hot," he said last night. He thought he would give them something to talk about. One night he was having a few drinks over at "Charles Kiehl's," a saloon near the capitol, with a man by the name of Joe O'Sullivan, a traveler for a Milwaukee drug house, and this man played him with being anxious to the Stephenson crowd, and Mr. Domachowski, jokingly declared that he got $1500 for it. Then O'Sullivan said he could fix Domachowski out better than that, and out of that cynical incident the $1500 story started. After the election of Senator Stephenson, at which Mr. Domachowski was present and voting for the Democratic nominee, Neal Brown, Mr. Domachowski "joked" Assemblyman Zimmerman by saying that he (Domachowski) had been offered $1500 to stay out and thereby assist Senator Stephenson.
"Is that so?" asked Zimmerman.
"Yes," answered Domachowski. They were then passing remarks at their desks in the assembly chamber.

MADAME MODJESKA IS DEAD IN CALIFORNIA

Famous Actress Passes Away After Several Years of Retirement From Active Work.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Los Angeles, Calif., April 8.—(Helen Modjeska, the famous actress, died today of Bright's disease at the age of sixty-five. Mrs. Modjeska, who has been living in retirement for several years, was born in Cracow, Poland, October 12, 1834. Though Polish by birth it may be said that her entire histrionic career has been identified with America. In 1872, when she was thirty-two years old, she abandoned the ambition of making a great reputation for herself in her native land, and with her second husband, Count Zdzislaw Chlapowski, and other Polish nobles of the time, came to the United States and found a Polish colony in California. The colony proved a failure and the following year Mrs. Modjeska returned to the stage, making her first American appearance in San Francisco. In New York she reported her San Francisco success. Three years later she appeared in London, and before long she was hailed as one of the foremost tragediennes known to the English-speaking stage. Her tour with Booth in 1889-90 is memorable. The remarkable testimonial given her in New York two years ago marked her retirement from the stage.

NEARLY COMPLETED THE NEW EAST WING

Work on Capitol Has Been Rushed Along in Very Rapid Manner.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., April 7.—The east wing of the new capitol building is rapidly nearing completion. Within the next week the building will be entirely enclosed, the last pieces of steel framework being placed into shape today. There is an effort being made now to get this wing all finished for the special session of the legislature to be convened next January. As soon as the present session of the legislature closes the offices of the governor, secretary of state, bureau of labor, railroad commission, state building department, superintendent of schools, dairy and food commission, state tax commission, game warden's office, bureau of immigration, G. A. R. headquarters and civil service commission will be moved into the west wing.
It is the plan to demolish the south wing at that time, pull down the dome and begin the construction of the south wing of the new state house.
One of the objections raised against the special session of the legislature was that when the members returned the senate, assembly chamber and committee rooms would be occupied by the state officers who now have quarters in the south wing. It was pointed out, however, that this session of the legislature would be short and that the east wing would be ready for temporary occupancy at that time.
Even if the legislature adjourns the latter part of May it is said by some of the members of the legislature that it will be full before the excavation is completed and the concrete walls under the building finished. Little can be accomplished on the south wing before late in the present year. The heating plant is rapidly nearing completion. The tunnel is finished and the heat for the new building will be furnished from this source next winter.

CLUE TO MURDER AFTER 30 YEARS

LONG TRAIL OF VIGO COUNTY, INDIANA OFFICERS.

POINTS TO A RICH TEXAN

Beautiful Rosa Tritt Was Victim of Fiendish Crime Committed by Jealous Farm-hand in 1877.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Indianapolis, Ind., April 8.—The authorities of Vigo county, this state, purpose to leave no stone unturned in their efforts to bring Sylvester Burnham, a wealthy and respected land owner of Texas, back to Indiana to answer a charge of a peculiarly atrocious murder committed at Sandford, Vigo county, thirty-two years ago. Notwithstanding the fact that the murder was almost forgotten and that many of those connected with the case as witnesses or otherwise have long since passed away, the legal authorities believe that they can weave a chain of evidence about the wealthy Texan that will result in his conviction if he is brought back to trial. Investigation papers have been obtained from Governor Marshall of Indiana and an officer has gone to Texas after Burnham.
The murder with which Burnham is charged was committed on the night of October 30, 1877. The victim was Rosa Tritt, a pretty young girl, granddaughter of a wealthy farmer with whom she made her home. In the employ of the farmer was a laborer whom the police allege is the man now known as Sylvester Burnham. The laborer became infatuated with the young girl. The latter, engaged to another man, refused to receive his attentions, and her refusal angered the laborer. The girl complained to her grandfather, but her complaints were not sufficient to cause Burnham's discharge.

On the Sunday morning preceding the murder Rosa's sweetheart drove out from Terre Haute and spent Sunday and Sunday night at the Tritt home. His presence further enraged the laborer. It is charged, and when he watched the lovers' good-bies kiss the next morning he is said to have gone into a passion and later to have told Rosa that he would be avenged. That morning the Tritt family began cleaning house and by night the carpets were all taken up and left in great rolls to be replaced next day. That night Rosa went as usual to her room on the second floor, where she slept alone. The laborer occupied a room on the ground floor. The grandparents also slept on the ground floor.

According to the evidence gathered immediately after the crime, the laborer is believed to have stolen to the girl's room some time during the night and cut her throat with a razor. When the body was found the next day it showed a deep gash in the left side, thought to have been inflicted in a struggle. After the murder had been committed the body was left in a roll of carpet in the room.

As a second chapter of the crime, it is charged, the murderer set fire to the dwelling in an effort to conceal the murder. Mr. and Mrs. Tritt barely escaped with their lives. In the smoldering roll of carpet next day was found the mutilated body of the young girl, and a search was begun immediately for the murderer. The only trace found of the laborer was his trunk, which was discovered hidden in a nearby pile of straw, where he is believed to have placed it before ascending to the girl's room. Neighbors reported that they saw the man in the vicinity two or three times after that, but no positive clue could be found which would lead to his whereabouts.

For more than thirty years the police officers and sheriffs of Terre Haute and of Vigo county followed meager clues to run down the murderer, but always without success. Not until a week or two ago did the authorities learn anything definite. In regard to the man they had sought for so many years. Then Captain Armstrong of the Terre Haute police stumbled accidentally upon a clue which led to the man alleged to be Burnham being located in Texas. An old-time resident of Vigo county, who lived in the vicinity of the Tritt farm and who remembered all of the details of the crime, is said to have recognized Burnham on a recent visit to Texas as the laborer who had been employed by Tritt and who had disappeared at the time of the murder.

According to facts that have developed during the present investigation of the case, the laborer had entered in the United States and had served in the navy five years. After his discharge from the service he went to Texas, where he took up a section of land, and later added to this until he owned a large strip of territory and accumulated considerable wealth as a ranch owner. He is said now to have a family and to be a respected citizen and devout member of the church.

William Bros. were hosts at a banquet last evening to their traveling salesmen throughout the United States. The "knights of the road" responded to the number of thirty. A 6:30 dinner was served by the ladies of the Congregational church in the church parlors, followed by an excellent program. Once a year William Bros. are hosts to their travelingmen at a two days' round-up, which brings the best of feeling between employer and employee.

The remains of the late Theodore Raymond, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Kate Sayre, last Monday at Canton, Mo., arrived here at 11:05 a. m. Wednesday, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Sayre, and son, Harvey Raymond. The remains were conveyed to the Fulton cemetery, where they were interred in the family lot. Mr. Raymond leaves to mourn his loss one daughter, Mrs. Kate Sayre of Canton, Mo.; one son, Harvey Raymond, a prominent young businessman of this place; one brother, E. Raymond, of Edgerton; and many nephews and nieces. The sympathy of a sorrowing community goes out to the bereaved family.

Miss Edna Stinton returned to her home in Burlington today after a brief visit at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Fanny Stinton.

The Easter supper held by the ladies of the M. E. church last evening in the parlors of the church was a social as well as a financial success and netted the society the neat little sum of $10.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Janesville Citizens Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well, kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Janesville proof:

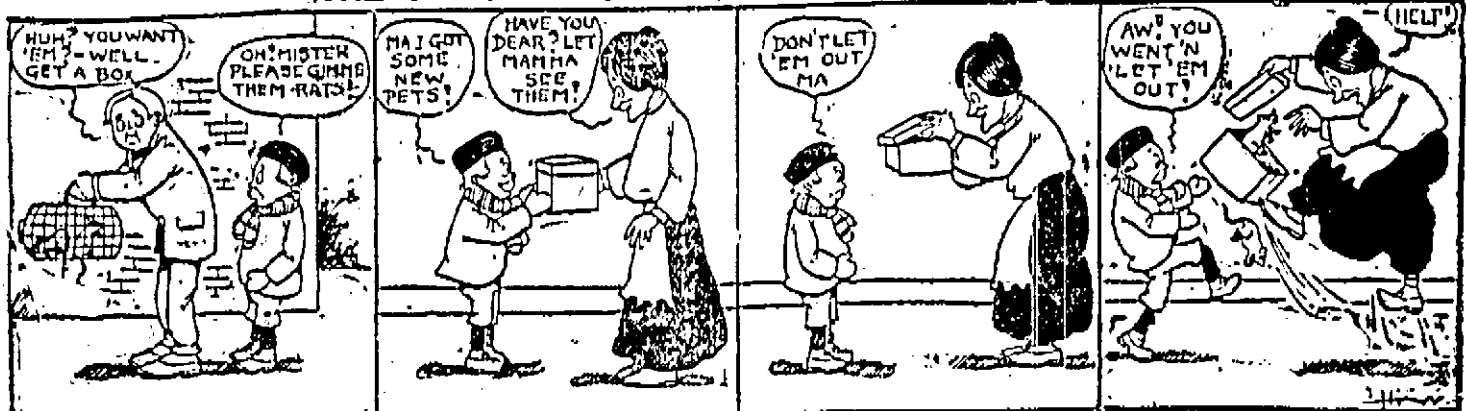

Mrs. Annie Kohlhorst, living at 203 Cherry St., Janesville, Wis., says: "Several years ago I was feeling badly on account of a disordered condition of my kidneys. I ached all over, felt miserable and at times my back pained me severely. As the kidney secretions did not act freely, I thought possibly my kidneys needed attention and going to the People's Drug Co., I procured Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking the contents of two or three boxes of this remedy, I was cured. I have never had any trouble since and know of others who have been cured by the use of this excellent remedy. I always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and can say that I think more of them now than when I gave a statement four years ago telling of my experience with them. I have others who will give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial and be convinced of their curative power."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

That British Man

Mrs. Duganish Talks About Her Neighbors.

"Well, it's my opinion that men who live in glass houses should pull down their vests," snappily observed Mrs. Duganish to her caller the other day. "Yesterday, going down in the elevator, I heard that sneaky Giddap man sneering to the man with him about some acquaintance of theirs who beats his wife. Giddap didn't know, of course, that I know that he is a perfect brute beast to his own wife."

"The Giddaps' washwoman told me about it. She's a good Christian woman, this washwoman, and the gongs on that who sees and hears in these apartments who she washes hurt her terribly. She tells me about 'em, because she says it's such a relief to her to get the load off her poor mind."

"But the very idea of that Giddap man talking about another man beating his wife—after the way he acts in his own home! The washwoman was finishing up the ironing in her apartment the other evening when something dreadful happened, and I should think that Giddap would be ashamed to meet his neighbors in the halls."

"It was this way: Giddap brought home a couple of theater tickets for that evening. He showed them to Mrs. Giddap at dinner. She inadvertently told him that she didn't care to see the performance again and asked him if he wouldn't change the tickets and go to some other theater."

"He told her that he didn't know that she had seen the show for which he had bought the tickets; that she hadn't said anything to him about having seen it—just as if, holy-toly, a married woman should be obliged to make a father confessor of her husband and tell him every single, solitary thing she knows! I suppose married men tell their wives everything they do—O yes!"

"You see, Mrs. Giddap had gone to the matinee performance of that show only a couple of days before, though, of course, she hadn't considered it necessary to say anything to her husband about it, and, of course, she didn't care to see the same show twice. But, would you believe it, Giddap got as grouchy as could be over it! He said that he wanted to see the show himself anyhow—the selfish brute! He never stopped to think for a moment that there were other shows in town that his wife wanted to see."

"Yes, and he told her that he was going to see that show, for which he had the tickets, too, and that if she didn't want to see it a second time, why, he'd go alone and she could stay at home. He flatly refused to run downtown ahead of her and change the seats for some other show—the miserable, callous, inconsideration of these men, isn't it dreadful!"

"Then he started to change into his evening clothes right after dinner and he repeated that he meant to see the show for which he had the tickets or no show at all, and then in her excitement, the pair of scissors that Mrs. Giddap had in her hand flew out of her grasp and they accidentally traveled toward Giddap's head, only missing him by an inch or so, and it's too bad they missed him at that, the stubborn brute."

"Well, when she saw that Giddap believed that she had thrown the scissors at him in purpose, Mrs. Giddap became still more excited, and she started toward him, sort of screaming like, and what do you think the monster did then? Why he grabbed a hold of her from behind and held her arms tight to her sides, holding them there just as if she'd been tied with ropes, and then he went on torturing the poor, abused creature with a lot of foot-man talk about how she ought to be ashamed of herself for getting into such a tantrum, and all that humbug that married men get off when they just know they're dead in the wrong."

"And he just held her arms to her sides that way for a quarter of an hour, and he had the nerve to tell her that she should have told him about having seen that show before so that he wouldn't have bought the tickets for it—just like all these men, crazy to make slaves of their wives!"

"Well, when she was so tired of being held that way that she couldn't stand up, he let her into a chair, and then he went on and finished his dressing, and instead of staying home and comforting the poor, dear thing after the brutal way he had treated her, didn't he put on his coat and hat and go right down to the theater and take in the show that he had bought the tickets for! Yes, indeed, he did, and he left her alone in the apartment to weep out her poor bruised heart. And he's a great one to talk about another man beating his wife, isn't he, the fiend!"

In a Different Class.
"I hear, Mike, that your wife has gone into society. Has she become a club woman yet?" "Indeed an' she has not got into that class; she still uses a flatiron, sor."

HUMAN NATURE

EVERYBODY wondered how Mrs.
Slane stood it.
Everybody wondered in tones ranging from high soprano to bary-
tone and bass.
Even when she was a bride and started in housekeeping the people in the apartment building shook their heads when they saw her pass in and out.

"Poor little thing!" they said. "She is so sweet-looking and fragile—and that husband of hers certainly has a horrible disposition even if he is so good looking! You can tell it by his face!"

Strange to say, they were not wrong. Slane did have a wretched temper and moreover he had none of those graces which are supposed to attract women. He was gruff and rough and cranky and inconsiderate and selfish and several other undeir-able qualities. In just what strange moment of mental aberration Mrs.
Slane had decided to wed him was a popular question.

"She must have had other chances!" said the neighbors. "It couldn't have been that! He must make her perfectly miserable!"
"She looks so resigned," they said when several years had passed. "It is pitiful to see her meekly tagging along after him as if she was afraid to call her soul her own! What he needs is some one to talk back to him!"

Unfortunately Slane ran his own business downtown, so the chastening effect of knocking to a superior there was not exercised on him. There did not seem to be any one with the power and the authority to beat some courage and humanity into Slane.

"The way he talks to her when they play cards!" said one of the neighbors after a whist game with the Slanes. "My dear, it is positively disgraceful! If I had been his wife I'd have thrown a chair at him! I would!
Just as though she didn't have a mile of 'se of her own! So embarrassing to outsiders! What on earth could she ever have seen in him?"

Through Slane other women managed their husbands beautifully. He would have been a remarkable man who could have been otherwise than amiable and liberal and attentive after his wife had voiced a sugared sentiment like this: "Henry, I thank my stars every day of my life that I am not Mrs. Slane! You are so different from him! I don't know what I'd do if you forgot to kiss me good-by every morning the way he does—and I am sure he is just as pretty and sweet as possible!"

Or the sentiment was expressed like this: "Tom, what do you think?
I ran in to see Mrs. Slane this morning and heard her asking him in troubling tones for 50 cents and he said she could have a quarter! What do you think of that? I just can't comprehend a woman's/enduring it, because you've always been so generous —oh, thank you! I can find good use for this $10 today! I'm so glad you're not like Mr. Slane!"

Or the remark was like this: "I really ought to give thanks publicly, James, that you are so good natured and kind, after hearing the way that Slane man goes on! He doesn't care a bit if all the windows on the court are open! You are so different!"

Nearly any man will be a model husband if his wife thus sings his praises to his face, insulating that he is such a paragon. He'd be ashamed not to be!
In time everybody got used to the fact that Slane was a brutal sort of person who ought by good rights to be shut up in an iron cage and that his wife was a suffering martyr over whom the look-on must drop a tear and a sigh. If Mrs. Slane had taken all the revenges on her husband that in eight years all the other women in the neighborhood had suggested in their conferences she would have had to get her normal lease of life extended and hire an assistant at that. Her abnormally meek and lovely disposition was a constant and never-failing topic when the weather and styles failed.

She was a quiet, reserved little person, was Mrs. Slane. So there was not a hint her rumor of impending revolution, until the deed was done.
She simply packed up her belongings and left Slane for good and all without saying a word or asking anybody's advice.

After the first riotous excitement had calmed down in the neighborhood six of the women who had always most violently wondered how Mrs.
Slane ever stood it and had yearned for a chance to plunge Slane into boiling oil, met in a fancy-work session and talked long.

"Well," said one of them at last.
"All I've got to say is that I'm very much surprised. I'd always thought Mrs. Slane was such a nice little thing. You never can tell! Leaving that poor lonely man like that! You've got to expect some little differences when you're married! There must be a flighty strain in her somewhere!"

"I never did like those awfully quiet people who never tell you anything," said the woman in the next chair.
"I'm going to ask Mr. Slane to disner! It's a shame!"

ORIGIN OF FOOLSCAP PAPER.

Emblem First Made Use Of by Cromwell to Show His Contempt for All Things Royal.

Everyone who has handled paper recognizes foolscap as a sheet 13 by 16 inches. This is used as a standard size all the world over, officially and commercially. It will therefore be interesting to know where and how this word originated. After the execution of Charles I, Cromwell and his staff, in organizing the commonwealth, made all possible effort to remove everything which had anything to do with the old monarchy. The paper in official use up to the time had as a watermark the king's crown; and, when Cromwell was asked what should be put in the place of the crown, to show his overwhelming dislike for anything concerning royalty, he directed a fool's cap to be put in place of the crown.
This was done, and when Charles II ascended the throne of England, it was at first forgotten to replace the cap by something else, and then, too late, the king was afraid to do anything to recall things dangerous to touch, and so it was neglected and the fool's cap may be seen as a water-mark on nearly all British official papers.

Red Seen Further Than Green.
Red lights have been proven to be visible to a greater distance than green. In recent tests on a clear dark night a red light of one candle-power was clearly discernible at one mile; one of three candlepower, at two miles; ten candlepower, through a binocular, at four miles; and 33 candle-power at five miles. On an exceptionally clear night, a white light of 3.2 candlepower could be distinguished at three miles; 17.2 candlepower, at five miles.

Polltiness Discouraged.

A hard blow at politeness on street cars in Massachusetts was struck by the supreme court of that state a few days ago. In a damage suit the court held that if a passenger on a crowded mit other passengers to alight, and in getting on again is injured by the sudden starting of the car, he cannot recover from the street railway company where there is a rule under which passengers ride on the platform at their

WHAT MAY HAPPEN

If the Hon. Sen. S. Payne, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, doesn't take thumb prints of the child of his labor and have it measured by the Herkimer system, he is not likely to recognize his tariff bill when it comes out of the senate committee on finance. That committee, or at least the majority members of it are framing a measure, which will resemble the Payne bill only as a Kentucky thoroughbred resembles a Missouri mule.

Of course, the great body of the measure will be similar to the house bill, the same as the Payne bill is similar to the present Dingley law, but there will be such vital changes in its important features that it won't look like the same bill. It is now apparent that the Ways and Means committee had two objects in view in drafting the Payne bill. One of these was to appease popular clamor with respect to the rates upon certain schedules, and the other was to suggest a way of raising more revenue. It now develops after the measure has been under discussion for two weeks or more that some serious mistakes have been made in attempting to satisfy certain demands on the one hand, and that the effort to increase the revenue by raising the duty upon articles heretofore free, on the other has brought forth protests which cannot go unheeded.

It is these errors which the senate will seek to correct. The reductions made in the steel and iron schedules which was a yielding to popular clamor has already led to a reduction in wages in a large number of plants in western Pennsylvania and Ohio. While it is probable that the old rates will not be re-established in their entirety in the metals schedule, there is likely to be a readjustment which will better meet the needs of the situation.

The reduction of the duty on lumber is another case in point. There has been a great hue and cry for free lumber. The committee saw that this was not only impractical from a revenue standpoint but also ruinous to the American industry and accordingly compromised on one-half the present duty. But in their efforts to get free lumber the chief advocates of this proposal who are owners of Canadian lumber lands have overstepped themselves by making plans to bring in Canadian and Mexican lumber, in contemplation of a reduction of the duty. The attitude of Clifford Pinchot, chief forester of the Department of Agriculture, however, has had the effect of changing sentiment very largely on this subject. Every body knows that Mr. Pinchot is for forest conservation, but he does not think that free lumber would aid in the realization of that desire, but on the contrary that it would interfere with it, because of the waste which would follow the necessity of leaving low grade lumber to rot and burn in American forests. So it is likely that the senate committee will put up the lumber duty to $1.50 a thousand, and may restore it to the Dingley rate of $2. It is also probable that coal now placed upon the free list may be restored to the dutiable list. The wool men have found a very dangerous error in their schedule which would practically mean a reduction of duty from 11 to 5 1/2 cents a pound, and here to the senate will amend. There is likely to be an entirely new maximum and minimum provision, for nobody, not even the members of the committee themselves, seems to know just how the Payne proposition will operate or what it means. If tea, cocoa and spices are not returned to the free list, then the guess of every well informed man will be wrong. It is now generally conceded that a serious mistake was made in placing tea upon the dutiable list with the only excuse that it would raise eight millions in revenue. The howl which has gone up against this tax is second only to that which is made against the countervailing duty on coffee, whereby coffee, supposedly on the free list, is subject to a countervailing duty; that is, a tax is imposed upon all coffee coming from a country which imposes an export duty. This means a tax upon 80 per cent of the product consumed in the United States, and which comes from Brazil. Coffee speculators and valorization interests have enough coffee on hand to last two years, and taking advantage of this countervailing duty would immediately put up the price, and thus reap a gratuity of some fifty millions of dollars before the treasury would derive a penny in the shape of revenue.

To make up for the loss of revenue in placing these articles back on the free list it has been suggested that the senate would provide a tax on dividends of corporations and bonds, and perhaps add a stamp tax as was done to raise a war revenue.

All of these changes will make the tariff bill of the senate look quite different from the Payne bill, and in the end it is likely to be a much more satisfactory measure, not only from the standpoint of revenue but of interest to the public.

So that story that the democratic members of the legislature who walked out when Stephenson was elected and thus made his election possible, were bribed to do so, has been exploded. No one with any common sense really thought that there was anything more than a political move in the whole affair anyway.

This question of granting an interurban franchise is again before the council for consideration. There is no question that an interurban between this city and Madison would be a paying proposition to Janesville merchants and businessmen in general and this fact should be carefully considered.

Baseball fans are beginning to warm up with the spring days and anxiously await the opening of the baseball season. There is no reason why Janesville should not have a city league composed of a half dozen teams from the different factories.

This question of holding a Home-Coming and Fourth of July celebration combined is still being discussed, but thus far no real steps have been taken in the matter. The time to do things is long enough in advance that all plans and preparations can be made so there will be no hitch in the affair.

The prospect for a new nation west of the Rockies is being presented to the inhabitants of the middle west states adjacent to those great piles of stone and they see visions of future cities that would surprise even the old cobbler with his wishing stone.

Now that election is all over and Helolt has gone west again the time for enforcement of the liquor laws of the state and city is due and some of the local license-holders should watch carefully that they do not lose their permit to sell liquor by refusing to obey the ordinances.

The early buds that came out before it was time may have a taste of cold weather yet and be sorry they came into this world of sorrow and tribulation after all.

The question of a tax on stockings appears to be worrying some of the congressmen as much as a heavier import duty on tobacco would. Still, they say women do not run the government.

There is a lull in sensational episodes in the legislature during this Easter recess, but the only reason is that the trouble-makers are planning for new campaigns of delays.

The real, genuine fun of an election comes after it is all over and the candidates begin explaining why they lost and how they could have won if they had done so and so.

South and Central America are very glad to turn to their big brother—Uncle Sam, when things do not go quite right. Otherwise they think his advice is a great bluff.

Poor old Castro, he is a man without a country at last, after having ruled with an iron rod for so many years.

Getting Ahead of One's Self.
"If I have anything to do that I particularly dislike, I start to work on it the first thing after breakfast; subordinating all routine work to that task," said a successful housekeeper recently. "One can expend enough nervous energy thinking about and worrying over an unpleasant duty to accomplish it. When it is finished and off one's mind early in the day, one gets ahead of one's self, so to speak."

The Last Straw.
"Say, paw," queried small Tommy Toddlers, "why do they always put in a scythe when they make a picture of Father Time?"

"It is intended to represent the shortness of life, my son," answered Toddlers, Sr. "Time cuts people down, you know."

"But, paw," continued Tommy, "when Time shall be no power, he'll drop his scythe, won't he?"

"Speaking of time, young man," said the father, "you go up and tell your mother it's time to put you to bed."

Heart to Heart Talks.

THE SOUL OF GOODNESS.
There's a soul of goodness in things evil.—Shakespeare.

Xerxes, the great Persian, tried to impose his oriental civilization on Europe, and he might have succeeded but for the Greeks.

In beating back the hosts of Xerxes the Greeks exhausted themselves. It was their last great fight for a new civilization.

When Xerxes put his vast army on a war footing he organized an effective commissary department. Among other things Xerxes carried a large amount of alfalfa for horse fodder.

The seeds of the alfalfa were scattered far and wide, and for hundreds of years Europe has used this rich fodder. Today this great plant is making the transmississippi region a rich one.

And thus is there a soul of goodness even in war.

Thousands of men who fought under Charles Martel ("the Hammer") died, and women were widowed and children orphaned. But Europe was saved from the Mohammedan invasion.

And so of calamity.

Out of the Charleston earthquake came the red flower of remembrance.

The destruction of San Francisco moved the world to swift sympathy and gave it a new dispensation of Anglo-Saxon energy.

Wind and tidal waves wrought awful havoc at Galveston, Tex. But out of that chaos came the Galveston form of city government, which, modified by "the Des Moines plan," bids fair to solve the problem of municipal government in America.

And so on through history.

The worst that men can do, the worst that men can do, all things of evil, appear to be overruled by some great law of the survival of goodness.

Taking a backward glance through the whole story of man—colored now with the red blood of war, now black with hate and now white with fear—up from it all, out from it all, shines the soul of goodness.

And so of individual history.

Out of your failures and fallings have come to you strength of character and sympathy for other souls and the wisdom of righteousness.

"The race is traveling, slowly and painfully, but traveling toward some 'far-off divine event.'"

"Shakespeare saw in these things the soul of goodness. Some of us see in them the God of goodness."

Coming Down Easy.

Inquiries after the welfare of Patrick Conroy were answered by his devoted friend, "Ferdinand Dolan, who was at the Conroys' in the double capacity of nurse and cook. "No, he's not dangerous hurt at all," was Mr. Dolan's reply to the door."

"We heard he had a bad fall, and was all broke to pieces," whispered the neighbor.

"It's a big story you've heard," said Mr. Dolan, in his cheerful roar. "There, he fell off'n the roof of the Brady stables where he was shining, and he broke his left leg, knocked out a couple o' teeth and broke his collar-bone."

"Mind ye, if he'd have fell clear to the ground, it might have hurted him bad, but sure there was a big pile of shingles and old lumber that broke his fall."—Youth's Companion.

Dynamic Explosion Shakes Country.

Piqua, O., Apr. 8.—A shock which disturbed Piqua yesterday, and which was at first thought to have been an earthquake, proved to be an explosion of 25 pounds of dynamite on a farm four miles from here. Houses were shaken at Sidney, 12 miles away. Fry Simon, 11 years old, who was engaged in blowing up stumps, was fatally injured by the explosion.

Oak Branch Crew Are All Saved.

Punta Arenas, Apr. 8.—The captain and 20 men of the British steamer Oak Branch, who had been missing since that vessel went down in the Straits of Westminister a few days ago, have been picked up and brought in here. All the passengers, officers and crew are now accounted for.

Escaped Convict Sentenced.

Montgomery, Mo., Apr. 8.—Theodore Lashby, who escaped from jail here with Luther Anderson, charged with murder, and was recaptured in Illinois after an exciting chase, was given five years in the penitentiary here yesterday.

Live and Let Live.

A neatly attired but somewhat wan-faced middle-aged Italian woman dressed in black, leading a little boy with each hand, called at a lawyer's office in the Land Title building recently and arranged with him to apply for a divorce. After going over the history of her case the lawyer said: "Well, I suppose you want to get all-mony?" In slightly accented, though poorly perfect English, the client replied: "I would just like to get part of his money, that's all."—Philadelphia Record.

"OBEY THE LAW" TO BE HIS PLATFORM

Mayor-Elect Willbur F. Carle's Declaration of Principles is Brief But to the Point.

Since his election as mayor of the city of Janesville, Willbur F. Carle has been receiving congratulations from numerous callers at his mercantile establishment on South River street.
To a group of those who dropped in to pay their respects this morning he said that his platform would be "Obey the law." And in this connection he stated it to be his belief that if a law was obvious to the quickest eye to get it repealed and to insist upon a rigid enforcement. There was considerable discussion of the elements and forces opposed to a republican success in the recent contest and the declaration was made by several that in view of the past history of local mayoralty contests, the emphasis was to be laid on Mr. Carle's remarkable victory rather than on the, to some, surprising triumph developed by Mr.
Nichols.

One of the elements of Mr. Carle's strength appears to have been in the north ward where he received the remarkable vote of 110 to Nichols' 224.
Four years ago Mr. Matheson received but 73 votes to Hutchinson's 252. This year, with not so many voters out, Carle, receiving a vote on the socialistic ticket, the republicans showed a marked gain. One of the features particularly favoring Mr. Carle's campaign was the fact that Mr. Peterson, who ran against Dunn this spring, was also Dunn's opponent four years ago.
This year he received 23 votes and four years ago he had 109. This is particularly flattering to Mr. Carle and his campaign.

KICKERS' KOLUM.

Janesville, Wis., April 7, 1909.
Editor Gazette:
Dear Sir: We have from time to time, through the papers, read items in regard to Dr. Till, commonly called the "plaster doctor." It was not long ago that it was stated that he was arrested by a man that thought he was injured through Till's treatment.
And now I read in the Gazette about a death caused by one of his plasters which is said to have caused blood poisoning. We have heard of different causes which lead to blood poisoning but are just as sorry to hear that a patient has died under Dr. Till's treatment of such a disease as we are to hear of a death under our medical doctor's care of a disease of a much longer name and much more hard to understand than even pneumonia.
We hear quite often not only of deaths under some medical doctor's care, but often of mistakes made by them, such as leaving instruments in the wounds after operating, and it was not long ago that one M. D. operated on the wrong foot of a child, not far from here. Any way I would like to hear from some of the thousands of Till's patients, that I may do some comparing. I have waited for ten months or more to hear Dr. Till denounced in glaring headlines as a "fake," but his patients do not seem to come to the front against him very fast. Respectfully, ED. HAYFORD.

"Blue Hen's Chickens."
Capt. Caldwell, who commanded a Delaware regiment in the revolution, was notorious for his love of cock fighting. He drilled his men adir-ably, and they were known in the army as "Caldwell's game cocks." The gallant captain held a peculiar theory that no cock was really game unless it came from a blue hen, and this led to the substitution of "Blue Hen's Chickens" as a nickname for his regiment. After the revolutionary war the nickname was applied indiscriminately to all Delawareans.

posed to have been a gambling den, officers found no apparatus such as is used in connection with gambling rooms, but among the men who were caught was Late Montane, who pleaded guilty a short time ago to the charge of conducting a gambling den.

The officers believe they have found the nest and are going to see that it is broken up. They claim that a number of prominent Beloit men were seen in the place.

ROOSEVELT IN A MESSAGE PRAISES WORK AT MESSINA

Says America May Well Be Proud of Relief Work Her Men Have Done.

Rome, Apr. 8.—Former President Roosevelt is still writing messages to the American public. The latest bears on the splendid work done by Americans in the relief of the earthquake-stricken city of Messina. It follows: "Before leaving Messina I desire to say that I am sure the American people do not realize the splendid work that is being done at Messina and Reggio with the lumber sent from the United States. I have visited the American camp and seen 250 houses already completed, and arrangements have been perfected for the rapid construction of 1,250 more.

"The whole work, which is under the general direction of Ambassador Orsini, has been organized and perfected by Lieut. Commander Belknap, with the assistance of Lieut. Buchanan, Ensign Wilcox and Spafford, Dr. Donelson, Paymaster Rogers, 40 enlisted men of our navy and a number of stalwart American carpenters. In addition, there is a fine group of Americans, such as J. Elliot, Winthrop Chandler, J. Rush and R. Hale, who are giving their time and energies to help the philanthropic work.

"I wish to say I consider that the American people are deeply indebted to each and every one of these men. I cannot exaggerate the pleasure it gave me to see the officers and enlisted men of our navy adapting themselves to strange and unexpected circumstances and performing with ability and through good will this most difficult task. Our nation can well be proud of them."

LIQUOR MEN FIGHT SUIT.

Important Legal Battle On in Federal Court of Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Apr. 8.—The fate of the whiskey trade is involved in a case brought by the United States government in which there was a seizure of nine barrels of whiskey of Corbin & Co.'s Cincinnati distillery. It is being tried before Judge Thompson of the United States district court. The whiskey was seized on the ground of substitution of other materials for the original products after the marking and branding of the barrels had been done.

The suit is being watched by distillers throughout the country and is believed to be more important than the internal revenue department's recent whiskey rulings. The case will go to the supreme court of the United States no matter which side wins.

PASTOR MAY BE POLICE CHIEF.

Methodist Minister Offered Post by Mason City (Ia.) Mayor.

Mason City, Ia., Apr. 8.—Dr. W. W. Carlton, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of this city, has been tendered the position of chief of police by Mayor Fred A. Kirschman.

In the election of a week ago Mr. Kirschman pledged to give the city a clean administration, and in fulfillment of this pledge has made this tender to one of the most aggressive and capable exponents of municipal reform in the west, and so that salary would not interfere, one of the wealthy citizens has come forward and made a tender of $40 a month in addition to the regular salary.

Colored Subjects of British King.

With all its possessions considered, there are six colored persons to every white in the British empire.

MRS. T. P. O'CONNOR.

New York.—American suffragettes started in to reestablish the ancient received today invaluable religious sentiment. Mrs. T. P. O'Connor reached New York on an ocean liner from London. She immediately announced to the American press her belief that the American women should vote and then she added that American women are more beautiful, more dashing, more irresistible, more independent, more healthful and more stylish than English women.

Mrs. O'Connor's arrival here added one more to the Women's rights army of the U. S. A.

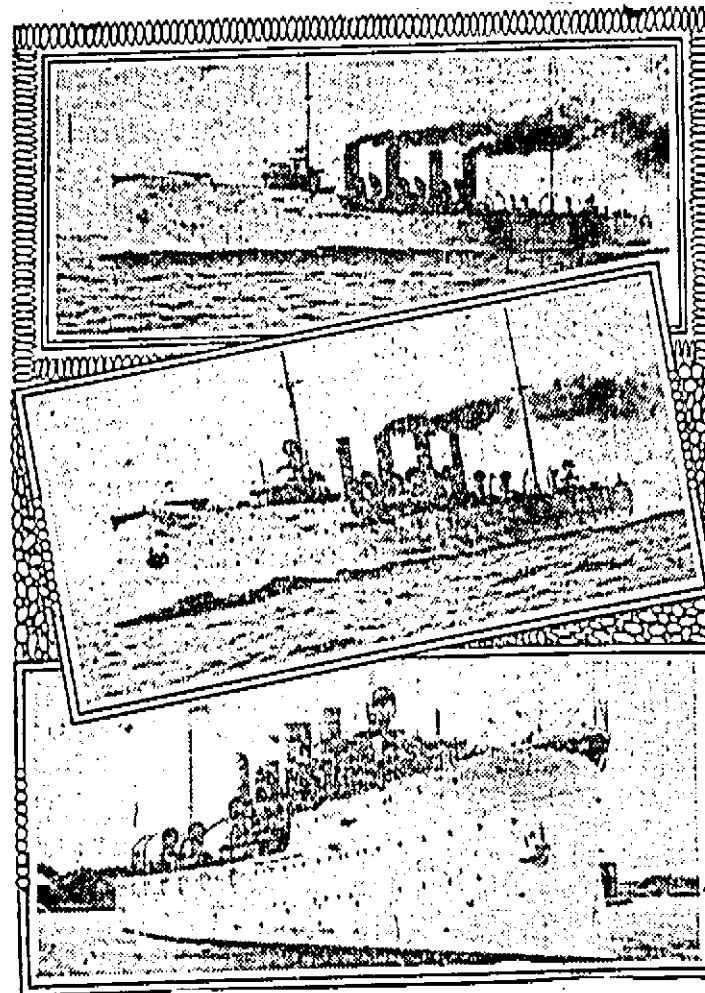

She is a firm believer in the cause, even to the point of holding that the militant suffragettes are justified in their huffing of themselves against the right British conventions and the scarcely less stern British laws; but she says frankly that she does not feel called to sacrifice herself behind the bars of a British jail in behalf of the great movement, which is getting along pretty well, thank you, without such devotion. And then, anyway, Mrs. O'Connor is an American woman.

On her present visit, however, Mrs. O'Connor is concerned more particularly with the promotion of the Irish industries movement, which has grown steadily since some of the landlords, the nuns and the priests

For some years past there has been not only a headwaters in London but annual exhibitions and sales have been held there in conspicuous houses. This year the exhibition and sale is to be held in Devonshire house, which has never before been thrown open to a project of this sort, but the duke of Devonshire is one of those who with Lord and Lady Aberdeen and many other persons are greatly interested in the whole movement for the promotion of these industries. Mrs. O'Connor said she believed thoroughly in the suffragette cause and she had marched with the 10,000 women who walked from Westminster to Albert hall for their great demonstration last year, although she professed herself not much of a walker. This is a jaunt of three or four miles over the London pave.

TAFT HEARS WHISKY TALK.

President Learns More About What It Really Is.

Washington, Apr. 8.—The bitter controversy which has been in progress ever since the pure food law was enacted, as to "what is whisky?" was renewed at the White House before President Taft as referee. The debate enlisted the services of many distinguished lawyers, among them Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to Great Britain, and John G. Carlisle, former secretary of the treasury.

In addition there were present the representatives of practically all the big distilleries of this country. Mr. Choate appeared for Canadian interests. Mr. Carlisle represented distillers of his native state, Kentucky. Attorney General Wickham, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the pure food expert, were among the government representatives heard.

Essential to Matrimony.

The inhabitants of the Green Islands, in the China sea, are largely engaged in diving for sponges. No girl there marries until she has shown skill in bringing sponges from the depths. In some of the islands the father of a marriageable daughter bestows her upon the most successful diver—he who can stay under water and bring up the biggest load of sponges.—Woman's Life.

Tribute to California Cherries.

A prominent French manufacturer of glass fruits admits that the cherries of California are at least as good in quality as the French varieties.

An Optical Illusion.
Did you ever try to see through your hand? By following these directions you may at least make yourself believe you are looking right through the palm. Out of a piece of paste-board about five inches square roll a tube. Have one end just large enough to fit around the eye, and the other a little smaller. Take the tube between the thumb and fingers of the right hand; put the larger end to your eye, and press your left hand against the smaller end. Keep both eyes open. Objects beyond the center of the palm, it is the uncovered left eye which is actually doing all the seeing, but so far as appearances go, it will seem as if the right eye were seeing, right straight through the left hand.

German Ped Tape.
A Danzig, Germany, paper tells a story of incredible red tapism recently witnessed in that city. A fire broke out at a big sugar factory and great damage was done in a few minutes. The flames were rapidly spreading, but it was hoped that the storehouse containing 12,000 casks of raw sugar, each holding a hundredweight, might be saved, and all efforts of the fire brigade were turned in that quarter. Here, however, several custom house officers suddenly appeared and forbade the firemen to enter the warehouse, on the ground that the duties had not yet been regulated. Despite energetic opposition the officers stuck to their principles, and the whole stuff was consumed by the flames.—Baker's Weekly.

THREE OF DETROIT'S GREAT PITCHING STAFF.

Manager Jennings feels pretty good over his pitching department. Will Hill Donovan, who still insists that he would have won that game if they had not stopped to chew the rag and thereby let him cool off, is back in the fold. Summers is there too. Willett, who made good last year, and Mullin, who won the only game for Detroit in the World's series, are also on deck. Mullin is to be given the honor of opening the season for Detroit. All together it looks very good to Detroit fans and to the enthusiastic manager.

BOY'S PLAY IS FATAL.

Indiana Lad Shot by Playmate in "Wild West" Act.

Linton, Ind., Apr. 8.—While playing "wild west" with five companions, Clifford Wolford, 15 years old, was shot and killed by Loren Hamilton, 18 years old. Hamilton then tried to commit suicide, but was prevented by the other boys who took his rifle away from him.

The boys had been taking the balls from cartridges for a 22-caliber rifle and had been taking turns about shooting the blanks at each other in playful warfare. By mistake a loaded cartridge was placed in the rifle. When Hamilton fired at Wolford the bullet struck the latter between the eyes, causing death an hour later. Pulling in his attempt to end his own life, Hamilton ran a quarter of a mile to a telephone and summoned a physician, who took the wounded boy to his home.

The Conjurer Confesses.

That "the hand is quicker than the eye" is one of those accepted sayings invented by some one who knew nothing of conjuring—or, as is more likely, by some cunning conjurer who aimed still further to hoodwink a gullible public. The fact is that the best conjurer seldom makes a rapid motion, for that attracts attention, even though it be not understood. The true artist in this line is deliberate in every movement, and it is mainly by his actions that he leads his audience to look not where they ought, but in an entirely different direction, says St. Nicholas. Mr. David Devant, who for a number of consecutive years has entertained London with his ingenious tricks, has said: "The conjurer must be an actor. By the expression of his face, by his gestures, by the tone of his voice, in short, by his acting, he must produce his effects."

The Longest Word.

What is believed to be the longest word to be found in any dictionary—one that leaves even German and Dutch hopelessly out of it—may be turned up in Liddell and Scott's lexicon by those who can read Greek characters. Those who cannot may be content to know that this word, which begins "Pepadomachoselachogaleos," proceeds in like manner through 78 syllables, and counts 170 letters in all. Of course, no ancient Greek ever used such a word as this in ordinary conversation. It is a comic word invented by Aristophanes for a play and means a dish compounded of all sorts of fish, fowl and sauces, which are enumerated in the translation. The most ingenious English translation of it yet suggested is—"hash."

Use of Salt.
Salt in moderate quantities is good for everybody. It aids digestion, and, better still, it makes one thirsty. If we eat plenty of salt and salty foods we will drink more water, and most people do not drink enough water. Try eating a raw apple sprinkled with salt. It is very good, particularly good for children. Pepper, on the other hand, and spices should not be given to children, unless in the most meager quantities. At many of the sunbaths the food is not seasoned at all, except with salt.

Words to Read and Heed.

WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO WITH THE CANAL?

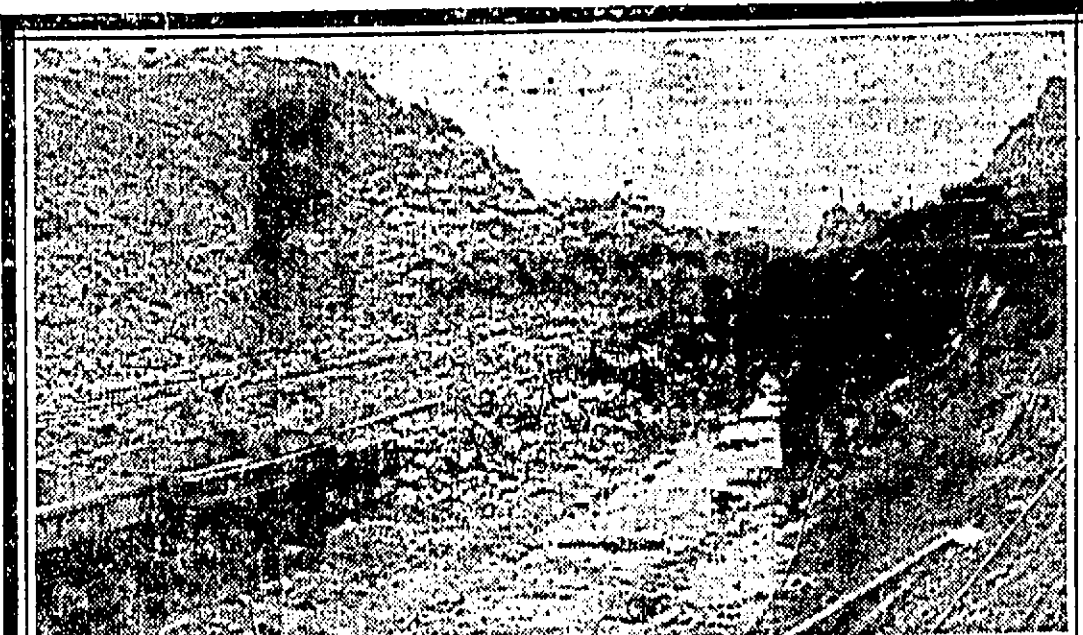

The Bay from the Office of the American Gazette

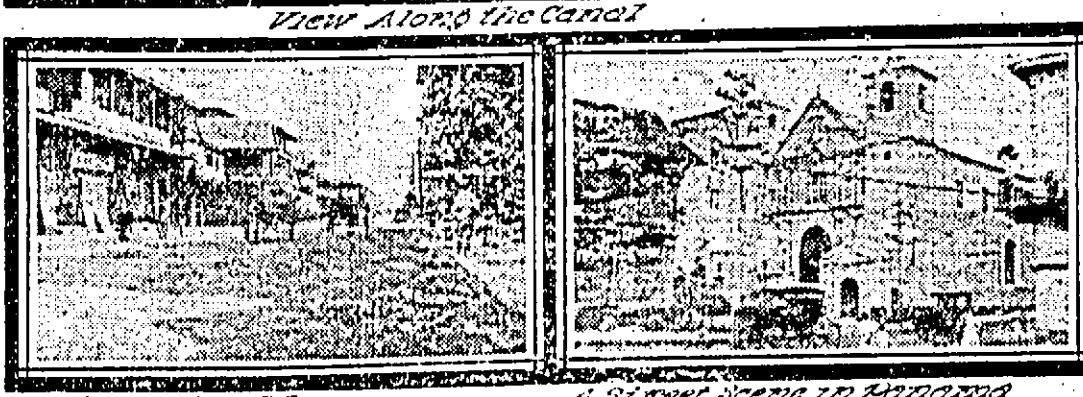

On the 21st day of November last a portion of the rock lay at the upstream end of the Gatun Dam sank about 20 feet. News of this occurrence immediately started a wide discussion of the much-vexed question of the safety of the structure, on which the entire lock-level plan of construction depended. The matter was greatly exaggerated by the press, one of the newspapers going so far as to declare that the discovery had been made of an enormous lake underlying the Canal Zone. This, however, was not the case; otherwise the condition would have afforded a simple solution to the problem. With a large subterranean lake available, all that would be necessary would be to scrape off the covering, or peel it off, as one might a pie crust, and presto—a ready-made waterway at sea level or lower. As a matter of fact, the trouble does not seem to have been of a serious character, for such a would raise apprehensions of the safety of the dam.

The commission gave out an official statement to this effect, which was reinforced by a similar utterance of the chief engineer. These assurances would have been more satisfactory but for the fact that Mr. Taft announced his intention of investigating affairs on the spot, and the President appointed a commission of engineers to accompany him. More significant still was the declaration of the President, echoed by Mr. Taft, to the effect that in case conditions seemed to warrant it, a change would be made to the lock-level plan. Considering that these two officials were responsible for Congress having adopted the report of the authority of the board of consulting engineers in favor of a lock-level canal, their utterances looked very much like a preparation of the public for a change of opinion.

It is a disputing thought that since the French undertook the canal project, 20 years ago, practically all the leading engineers of the world have been called upon to investigate and report on the scheme. One professional had their complete technique and we our kind of consulting engineers, both bodies composed of international authorities of the highest repute. In addition, numerous experts earthquake hazard was also advanced as an argument against the lock-level waterway, but it does not appear to be a very strong one. It is true that a comparatively slight shock might damage the locks and obstruct navigation for a while, but a violent convulsion would be apt to work greater destruction upon the canal on a level than that at the 25-foot elevation. It must be remembered that in connection with the former there must be a number of dams, levees, sluices and other works liable to damage by earthquakes.

The main feature of the lock-level plan is a large lake 110 square miles in extent, which will be formed by shutting in the Chagres Valley by the Gatun Dam and impounding the waters of the stream that flow into it. This lake will form the summit level of the canal. At the Atlantic end of it a broad channel about three miles in length will lead into the ocean. The lake will afford open navigation for a distance of 23 miles, or more than half the total length of the waterway. The Colón Cut will be traversed by a channel 200 feet in width, and the remaining distance will be made up by a mile and a half across, filling a depression between the divide and the

Unless we can make the canal a paying undertaking from the commercial point of view, it had better have been left alone. As a strategic agency it will be of little account. It will enable us in time of peace to move our vessels expeditiously from one side of the Continent to the other, but in case of war it may be more detrimental than useful. To fortify the canal is quite out of the question, or even to guard it effectively. A strike of dynamite in the hands of a Japanese Hobson, say, would be sufficient to wreck the locks at Gatun and put the entire waterway out of commission. Its neutrality will not be observed by a determined belligerent. In case of war the power first on the spot or having the strongest navy will seize and hold the canal. In the affair with Russia Japan showed an enterprising appreciation of the value of a coup de guerre. Should she design hostilities upon the United States she would, before declaring war, prepare for a dash to the Panama Canal, and if one fleet happened to be elsewhere, we might be led to wish that we had never made a cut through the Isthmus.

WANTED TIME FOR THOUGHT.

Arduous Duties Before the Head of the House Required His Entire Attention.

The baby was ill, and the doctor ordered that he be taken to the sea. This involved the closing of the house until the little one should be well enough to return. After the wife had secured hotel accommodations by the long-distance telephone, the man of the house went to his room and slowly and thoughtfully spread the entire contents of his wardrobe upon his bed, that they might be convenient for his wife to pack.

He stood surveying them, deep in meditation, when his wife came into the room and began to speak to him.

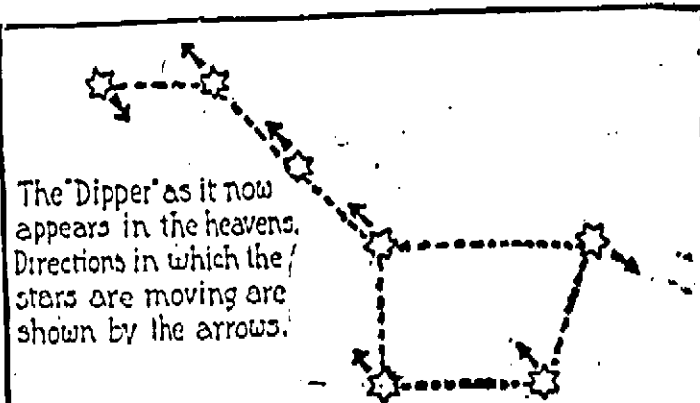

He raised his hand rebukingly. "Don't talk to me now, Sis, don't talk to me! I have a great deal on my mind. If we are going to the seashore day after tomorrow there are many things to be done, and I must plan."

His wife, who had already telephoned the butcher, milkman, baker, grocer, expressman and ticket office, and given the maid a month's vacation and arranged with a relative for the care of the dog, gazed at him in silence.

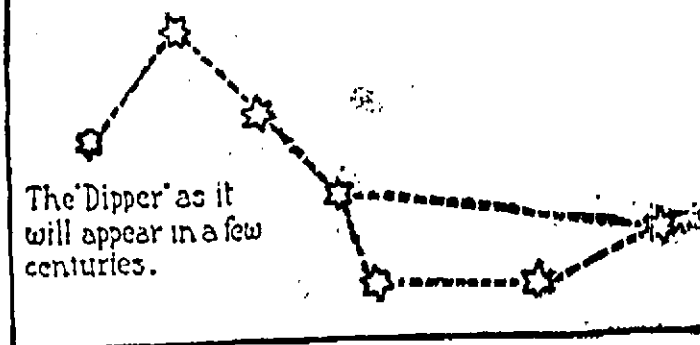

"A great deal on my mind," he repeated. Then the interrogative nature of his wife's silence forced him to explain.

"You see," he said, "I have got to put a nail in the cellar window and stop the newspaper."—Youth's Companion.

The Dipper as it now appears in the heavens. Directions in which the stars are moving are shown by the arrows.

The Dipper as it will appear in a few centuries.

"THE BIG DIPPER IS GOING TO LEAK."

Of all the constellations of the sky, the best known is the "dipper," or "great bear." Now the astronomers say that it is well for the next few generations to take a good look at it, for it is changing, and in time will get to be a bumpy old "dipper," and leaky. The motion of its seven stars has been so slow that for ages those seven stars have apparently stood in the shape of a dipper in the north sky. But during the next few centuries the astronomers say the "dipper" will bulge and leak, and the handle will break in two. The astronomers say that these stars have two directions of movement, as shown by the arrows in the diagram, and so in time the symmetry of the figure they now make will entirely break up.

Says that Ordinary Soaps and Shampoos kill the Hair

Fully seventy-five per cent of the causes of dandruff and baldness are due to the destroying action of strong alkali in the ordinary soaps and shampoos that make the hair dry, harsh and brittle, give it that "dead" appearance and, in a short time—kill it!

SPECIAL DISEASES

REQUIRE THE ATTENTION OF SPECIAL PHYSICIANS

Strong, Vigorous Men and Women

That is what we desire to be. Some fail in this respect through misfortune, others through indiscretion and quite a good many others from neglect. Whatever the cause may be in your case remember a weak constitution is a handicap to success. It is an unnecessary handicap, because you can in all probability be cured, and your weakness or disease removed. The effort you should make is to consult a reliable and experienced specialist.

A physician who has made a specialty of Nervous and Chronic diseases and who is recognized a leader in the profession,

DR. W. E. SHALLENBERGER

Comes to Janesville, TUESDAY, APRIL 13th, and will be at the Myers Hotel from 8:00 a. m. until 5:30 p. m.

Many of Southern Wisconsin's citizens have been cured by Dr. Shallenberger, and he is well known in Janesville and vicinity. That his services have been very satisfactory is proven by the fact that since 1904 he has visited Janesville every 28 days, and also by hundreds of letters received from his patients, a few of which are printed at the bottom of this column.

He undertakes to cure permanently the cases he accepts, and sends those who cannot be benefited home without taking a fee from them. This is the reason he continues his visits year after year while other doctors have made a few visits and stopped.

Dr. Shallenberger is the most successful Specialist in the State in the treatment of NERVOUS and CHRONIC DISEASES. ES, proven by the many cures effected in chronic cases which have baffled the skill of many other physicians. His experience has made him so proficient that he can name and locate a disease in a few minutes.

Special Attention Given All Surgical Cases DISEASES OF MEN

He knows that thousands of men who are suffering from melancholy, despondency, excesses, or overwork have been disappointed so often that they are discouraged and have almost given up all hope of ever being cured. Dr. Shallenberger is familiar with the teachings and methods of all schools of medicine, and does not confine himself to any particular one. He treats his patients to cure them, and uses without prejudice whatever will accomplish that result.

DR. SHALLENBERGER SUCCESSFULLY TREATS CATARRH IN ALL ITS FORMS

Diseases of the Nose, Throat, Eye and Ears, deafness and ringing in the ears. Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels and Liver are curable if correctly treated. The most stubborn cases of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach will yield to treatment, and a short time will convince you of the greatness of the truth of this claim. Gall Stone cases should investigate my treatment before submitting to an operation as my treatment rarely fails.

CHRONIC KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLES

respond quickly and should not be neglected. Hundreds of people who have kidney trouble are refused life insurance every year, who were unaware of its existence.

GOITRE (BIG NECK) Come and let me tell you of the cases I have cured.

PILES, FISTULA AND ALL RECTAL DISEASES Treated without the use of the knife and will remain cured.

A VISIT WILL TELL

Perhaps you are suffering in silence; perhaps you have been unsuccessfully treated; perhaps you anticipate that relief can be secured only through radical surgery; but more likely you consider your case hopeless. Don't despair, even though you have not been successful heretofore. There may be health in store for you yet; a useful life of happiness and prosperity. A visit to my office will tell; surely it is worth the trouble, as health is a prime necessity, a most valuable asset, paramount to almost everything a human being can possess. DO NOT BE SATISFIED UNTIL YOU HAVE BEEN EXAMINED BY DR. SHALLENBERGER.

You may be sent away happy without treatment, but with advice that will save you time and money, as well as mental anxiety. If you require treatment you will be treated skillfully and restored to health within the shortest time and at the least possible expense.

JANESVILLE DEALER
DENIES THE REPORT

Numbered Sale of Soulmans and Mount Joint Packing Is Without Foundation.

Whatever hopes were raised in the minds of Janesville Tobacco dealers that the buying movement had commenced in earnest, due to the rumor that John Soulmans had sold a large quantity of 1906 and 1907 leaf, were blasted when Mr. Soulmans stated last night that the report was absolutely without foundation and that no sale had been made. Outside of this rumor, which is to be met with on every side and in which many still believe to have some foundation, there are no sales reported.

Almost all of the dealers have finished their sorting, and those who have delayed their work will start soon. McGiffin and Hickmeyer intend to start work next Monday with a force of about fifty men, and anticipate about six or eight weeks' work.
George Kunkin expects to start next week with a medium force and Maurice Bros. will also begin operations soon.

At P. Green, who has just returned from an extensive visit in the east, says that the trade conditions there are good. This opinion together with the views of the different dealers who have studied the question carefully, seem to warrant the belief that the Wisconsin trade will soon pick up.

Element of Danger to Society.

The real danger to modern institutions is not in the difference in the size of fortunes or that some live in mansions and others in huts. The real danger is that the current of sympathy which should circulate freely among the entire citizenship is obstructed.

ELECTION RESULTS
IN CUT-OFF CITY

Election Day Passed Off Very Quietly and Vote Was Unusually Light Throughout City.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, April 7.—Yesterday went on record as about the quietest election day ever seen in Evansville. The vote was unusually light, the total number of votes cast being one hundred and forty-one hundred and twenty-five men and fifteen women.
For school superintendent today received sixty-four and Antisole sixty-three. Charles Cary for state superintendent carried the city by a majority of two votes. Dr. C. L. Smith was defeated by Henry Austin for supervisor in the third ward by six votes. This was the first change in the local officials, the others holding over or being re-elected.

The funeral of Mrs. Marilla Sherman was held at half past two o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Free Baptist church, conducted by Rev. Ellen A. Copp. Mrs. Sherman was born in New Hampshire in 1832 and came West and lived in Rutland, Wis., for some time, but was a resident of 150 years for over twenty-two years.
She was the widow of Daniel P. Sherman, a soldier in the Union army. He died in 1882. Mrs. Sherman had been in feeble health for the past several years and during that time has been an inmate of the Soldiers' Home at Waupun where her death occurred.
During her residence in Evansville she was a faithful member of the Free Baptist church and many old friends here will sympathize with the two sons who are left to mourn their loss.

Mr. Julius left yesterday morning for Denver, Colo., where he has a position in view. If he is pleased with the position and country he will move his family there in the near future.

In response to a special invitation from the pastor, the members of the Masonic lodge and order of the Escerion Star will attend in a body the Easter service in the Congregational church Sunday morning.

Mrs. Albert Gilley and little son Donald returned to their home in Stoughton yesterday, having been here for a week's visit to her sister, Mrs.
Peter Smith, and other relatives.

Luther Graham had an eye badly injured by a piece of steel flying into it while at work in the foundry and was in Janesville the first of the week to have the steel removed by an eye specialist.

Mrs. H. W. Wales has been ill for several days.

Miss Emma Van Wart of Deloit is the guest of her cousin, Miss Marjorie Van Wart.

There was a good attendance at the Easter social given by the Epworth club and Juniors in the Methodist church last evening. A pleasant time was had and over thirty dozen eggs were donated to be sent to the Lake Bluff Orphanage.

Mrs. Lacey of Fostville was a recent visitor in Evansville.

Beginning Wednesday evening, April 7, the stores of the city will be open Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

Mrs. Cora Hilde of Edgerton is spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Schofield.

There will be special services in the Episcopal church on Good Friday from seven to three o'clock and in the evening at seven thirty. On Easter Sunday there will be a service at seven thirty, morning prayer at ten, communion and address at ten thirty and also meeting at seven thirty in the evening.

Miss Nettie Bayles and Miss Lella Shelton of Whitewater Normal are home for a week's vacation.

Mrs. S. T. Walker of Madison is the guest of Mrs. E. E. Colony.

Mrs. Florence Danks who has been very ill for the past two or three weeks remains about the same.

R. D. Hartley was in Janesville on business this morning.

Real Attractiveness.

A magnetic personality is often more powerful than ability, and is often, very often, placed in the balance against it. It is therefore advisable to exert oneself to the utmost to cultivate that wonderful charm to the highest degree, and who who has it is not so much to be pitied as blamed, for it is, more or less, within the reach of all.

Society's Selfishness.

Intend of sharing the burdens of city life we retreat. When the district in which we have built our factories becomes too crowded with workmen and the atmosphere too oppressive with smoke and odors, we withdraw to some quiet suburban town and Link little of others that must continue to live their lives in our service and in the environment we have created.

Walter Thomas Mills of Seattle who came here with the Debs "Red Spee-cher" during the campaign last fall and whose speech at that time proved him a thinker and speaker of ability, made a strong appeal for Socialism to an evening. He set forth the claims which are advanced in behalf of the proposed new order in a clear and logical fashion and was never prosy in driving home his points.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

THAT the poorly dressed customers are generally treated with indifference and inattention by the clerks in department stores is a deplorable fact that experienced shoppers are obliged to acknowledge.

A very wealthy woman recently told me that she had always thought this statement exaggerated until she verified it by an unpleasant experience. She had occasion to hasten downtown very early one rainy morning in search of some goods for her dressmaker. Finding rather a shabby tailored suit that she thought suitable for the disagreeable weather, she called forth.

She went at once to the store where she usually traded. Several salesmen were lounging idly behind the counter visiting together, and none of them offered to wait on her. Finally, after a salesman had given her very poor and unbecoming attention, she gave up and went to a nearby store where she purchased a good bill of goods.

But her vexation waxed the warmer the more she thought of how shabbily she had been treated. "Not for myself," as she told me, "but to teach those clerks a lesson that would prevent other women suffering such humiliations I determined to return to W. & L.'s and relate my entire experience to Mr. L., a member of the firm who is a personal friend of mine."

In relating her story to Mr. L., she said, "On my goods you lost $25, on lining $12, on furnishings $8.
My largest charge account has always been here, but after such unbecoming treatment I walked right over to C. and opened an account there. When I considered, I thought it was hardly fair not to give you a hint of the reason I did this."

I have often noticed that plump gowned women shoppers, evidently busy wives and mothers, in the city for perhaps a day's shopping, are treated with scant courtesy by the clerks.
Their limited time is, of course, exceedingly valuable to them, but they are always made to wait at the counter until their more fashionably attired sisters are served. Were it not for this they would not be so patient. They are exactly what they want. Anything will be palmed off on them with the assurance that "it is exactly what they want as it's the latest thing."

The member of the firm was considerably disgusted to learn of this condition existing in his store, and my friend at least had the knowledge that her annoying experience had served as an eye-opener to him. Within a week a personal letter was sent to each clerk telling them that in order to hold their places, uniform courtesy and willingness to show goods must be maintained towards all customers regardless of their clothes or appearance.

Lighting Flashes.

Accumulating evidence shows that lighting flashes may have a much more varied structure than was formerly supposed. Photographs by A.
Larsen, a Danish photographer, indicate that flashes may be made up of small electric discharges, or pulses, of which 40 may follow along nearly the same path in half a minute.

TEDDY, JR., AND THE GIRL HE IS TO BE ENGAGED TO.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., son of the only living president of the United States, is engaged to Miss Carrie Munn of Washington, D. C., according to reports from Hartford, Conn., from which city young Roosevelt is employed in a carpet factory. Miss Carrie Munn is the daughter of Mrs. C. A.
Munn of Scott's circle, Washington, D. C. The Munn family is of high social standing and wealth. For several days Miss Munn has been a member of a party of nine at the exclusive Country club, Farmington, Conn., where a birthday party in honor of young Roosevelt was given last Friday night. The visitors at the club were accompanied by Mrs. Munn, and by the wife of Admiral Cowles, an aunt of Teddy, Jr. Among the guests were Mrs. Munn's three sons and two daughters. In Washington Miss Munn has been a close friend of Roosevelt and now it is said she is to marry Ethel's oldest brother. The pleasure shows Miss Munn and Theodore, the latter taken just as he was starting to experiment in a balloon.

a quarter inch long."

Danderine stimulates the scalp, makes it healthy and keeps it so.
It is the greatest scalp invigorator

CHAPTER II. The Man.

I see 'em pretty often during the next week. They used to loaf down to the landing of a morning, smoking cigars, and with their hands in their pockets. Crazy or not, there was a something about 'em that kind of got me; I own up I began to like 'em, in spite of their topknots being out of gear. As a general rule I don't hanker for the average city boarder. He runs too much to snatching clothes and patronizing. Neither the clothes nor the air set well; kind of look like they were second-hand and made over for him by the folks at home. When one of that kind is out sailing with me and begins to lord it and show off before the girls the Dora Bassett is pretty apt to ship some spray over the bow. A couple of gallons of salt water sliced off a wave top and poured down the neck of one of them fellows is the best reducer I know of; shrinks his importance like 'twas a flannel shirt.

But Nate Scudder's private patients weren't that kind. Not that they weren't dressed. Land sakes! I don't s'pose they wore the same vests two days running. But they looked like they was used to their clothes, not as if they'd just been introduced and didn't feel to home in 'em. And they didn't patronize none to speak of; called me 'Skipper' and 'Sol' just as sociable as could be. And as for the girls, they never looked twice at any of the hotel ones. Them two skittish females that I took over to Trumet used to get in their way and bag pardon and giggle, holisting flirtation signals, so to speak, but Van Brunt and Hartley wouldn't even come up into the wind; just kept on their course like they was carrying the mail. 'Twas these two females that first named 'em 'The Heavenly Twins'; 'twas shortened later to 'The Heavenlies'.

Every time I took the Heavenlies on a cruise the more certain I was that they were loons—harmless and good-natured, of course, but loons just the same. Most generally they carried a book along with 'em and read it out loud to each other. They'd read a spell and then stop and break out with 'By Jove! that's so. He's right; won't he?' You'd think that book was a human animal, the way they went on about it. I've heard a minister do the same way over the Scriptures; but this wasn't the Bible; the name of it was 'The Natural Life.' I borrowed it once to look at, but 'twas all foolishness to me; telling about money being a curse, and such rot. I've been cursed considerable since I first went to sea, but not by money—no, sir!

But Van Brunt would read three or four fathom of rubbish out of 'The Natural,' and then heave to and say:
'Old we didn't think of that afore, Martin. It doesn't count for much, does it? Well, we're through with it now, thank God! Look at that sunset.
Have a smoke, skipper.'

And then he'd pass over a cigar that had cost as much as ten cusses a box, if I'm any judge of tobacco.

One night, just as we were coming into port, Van says to me:

'Sol,' he says, 'We may want you and the boat to-morrow. My man'll let you know in the morning. Meanwhile just dodge the nautical bunch at the hotel, will you?'

I was a good deal shook up. I'd almost forgot that keeper.

'Man?' says I. 'Oh, yes, yes! I see, is he here now?'

'No; coming to-night, I believe. By-
by. Just consider yourself engaged till you hear from us.'

They walked off and left me thinking. Thinks I: 'It's a fair bet that that keeper don't let you two go boating by yourselves again.'

So the next day about half-past nine, when I'd just about decided to let some of the boarders have the Dora Bassett, I looked up from my fish flus and here was a fellow coming down the wharf.

He was a kind of an exhibit for Wellmouth, as you might say. Least-ways he was bran-new for me. Six foot two over all, I should judge, and about two foot in the beam. Cast a shadow like a rake handle. Dressed up and precise, and prim as a Sunday school superintendent. He looked sort of gossipy, too, with his smooth upper lip and turned-down mouth, and little-two-and-a-half-inch side whiskers at half mast on his cheeks. But his eyes was fishy. Thinks I: 'No sir! I don't want to subscribe to no Temperance Advocate, nor buy 'The Life of Moses and the Ten Commandments,' nor I don't want to have my tinfoot took nother.'

He stood still by the stringpiece of the wharf and looked me over, kind of grand but well-meaning, same as the prince of Wales might look at a hophead.

'Hello,' says he.

'Hello, yourself,' says I, keeping on with my work.

'Mr. Edward' he ordered the boat for 'half past 11,' says I. 'How'll he have it—fried?'

'Beg pardon?' says he.

'You're welcome,' says I. I can stand being patronized, sometimes, if I'm paid for it, but I didn't see this critter developing no cash symptoms.

'My good man,' he says; 'you don't understand me, I said that Mr. Edward had ordered the boat for 'half past 11.'

'I know you did. And I asked if he'd have it fried.'

He seemed to be turning this over in his mind. And with every turn he got more muddled. I'd concluded by this time that he wasn't a book agent.
What he was though I couldn't make out nor I didn't much care. He riled me, this fellow did.

'Look 'ere,' says he, after a minute.
'Is your name Pratt?'

'Yup,' I says. 'On Thursdays it is.
'Thursdays?' says he. 'Thursdays?
What—what is it on Fridays?'

'Mister Pratt,' says I, pretty average brisk.

He seemed to be more muddled than ever. He looked back towards the hotel and then at me again. I had a notion he was going to sing out for help.

'My man,' he says, again. 'My man—'

'Lumph!' I interrupted. 'Well, if I'm your man whose man are you?'

And, by him! he seemed to understand that! 'I'm Mr. Edward Van Brunt's man,' says he, 'and Mr. Edward has ordered the boat for 'all—'

And then I begun to understand—or thought I did. 'Twas the keeper. Well, in some ways he looked his job.

'O—oh!' says I. 'All right. Yes,
yes. I heard you was coming, Mr.—'

'Pratt,' says he; 'James Oppen.'

'Prompt to know you, Mr. Oppen,' says I, which was a lie, I'm afraid.

'Not Hopper,' he says. 'Oppen.'

'Sure! Oppen's what I said,' says I.
He got red in the face. 'Oppen,' he says. 'Haltch—p-p-p-p.'

'Oh, Hopper!' I says.

'Of course,' Oppen,' he says.

I felt as if I'd been sailing a race, and had made a lap and got back to the starting buoy.

'All right,' says I. 'What's an H or two between friends? How's your patients, Mr. Oppen Hopper?'

'Look 'ere, my fine fellow,' he says.
'You're too fresh. For a 'peenny I'd come down and put a 'lead on you.'

And right then I give up the idea that he was a retired parson. Parsons don't talk like that.

'You would?' says I. 'Well, you go on putting 'sands on the poor lunatics you have to take care of and don't try any of your asylum games with me. 'Twould be safer for you and wouldn't interfere with my work.'

What do you want?

'I'm Mr. Edward Van Brunt's vally-
' he says—'is man-servant; and to
'as ordered you to—'

'His man-servant!' I sung out, setting up straight.

'Of course. Didn't I say so? His vally; an—'

Well, I'd made a mistake, I judged. If he was a servant he couldn't be the keeper. I calulated 'twas bound to be a little more sociable, besides, I was curious.

'Lumph!' says I. 'I guess I'd ought to beg your pardon, Mr. Oppen—'

'Oppen!' he fairly hollered it.

'All right. Never mind. Come on aboard and let's talk it over.'

So aboard he come, making a landlubber's job of it, and come to anchor on the bench in the cockpit, setting up as stiff and straight as if he'd swallowed a marlin-spike. Then we continued to talk, me dropping a question every once in awhile, and him dropping his like 'he was Teedling 'em to the hens.

'What kind of a servant did you say you was?' says I, breaking the ice.

'A vally, Mr. Edward's vally.'

'Vally, hey?' says I. 'Vally! Hum!
I want to know!'

I guess he see I was out of soundings, so he condescends to do some spelling for me.

'Vally,' says he. 'Vally.'

'Oh!' says I. 'A vally. Yes, yes;
I see.'

I knew what a vally was—I'd read about 'em in the papers—but this fellow's calling it a 'vally' put me off the course. He was nothing but a foreigner, though, so I made allowances.

I give him a cigar that I bought at the grocery store on the way down, and we lit up. Then he commenced to tell about himself and how he used to work for a lord once over in England.

According to his tell England was next door to Paradise and the United States a little worse than the other place. 'Gawd forsaken' was the best word he had for Yankee-land.

'I suppose you'll quit when the keeper comes,' says I.

'Keeper?' says he. 'W'at keeper?'

'Why, the fellow from the asylum.
How long has your boss and his mes-sieurs been crazy?' I asks.

'Crazy?' he says. 'Crazy? W'at do you mean?'

'Look here,' says I. 'You tell me straight. Ain't Van Brunt and Hartley out of their heads?'

'Out of their heads?' 'Eavens, no!'
He was so upset that he couldn't hardly speak for a minute. Then he commenced to tell about the Heavenlies, and 'twasn't long afore I begun to see that 'twas Nate Scudder and me that needed a keeper; we was the biggest loons in the crowd.

Seems that the Twins was rich
New Yorkers—the richest and high-tonedest kind. Both of 'em had money by the bucket and more being left to 'em while you wait. They lived on some avenue with a number to it, and they done business in the 'Street,' meaning that they dickered in bonds and such things, I gathered. Also I gathered they didn't have to work overtime.

'But, if they ain't crazy what made
'em come down here to live,' says I.
'at Nate Scudder's?'

CARPET SWEEPER TOO NOISY.

Dealer Left with Memory of Good Joke to Compensate Him for Loss of Sale.

A hardware dealer in town tells a story about a prim old lady who came into his store the other day to purchase a carpet sweeper. She gazed here and there about the store as she entered, and finally going up to the dealer she looked at him quizzically over her glasses and asked: "Do you keep carpet sweepers?"

"Yes, madam," replied the dealer, and naming the two kinds which he had in stock, asked which she desired.

"Well," said the lady, "you may show me both kinds, if you will."

"Just a moment, madam, until I get them from the rear of the store." And with that he went to an obscure corner and took down the carpet-sweepers from their hooks upon the wall.

He happened that in front of one of the makes which he desired there was a lawn mower so hung that he had to move it. He took it down from the hook and as he did so it rolled along the floor with a grinding rattle.

Before he had time to turn around he heard the old lady shout from the front of the store: "That makes more noise than my old one, and I don't care to look at it," and so saying, she walked out to the door, leaving the dealer to wonder whether the joke was worth the loss of the sale.—Portland

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, April 8, 1860.—Roughly handled.—A young man named McDougall got into a difficulty last evening at a saloon on East Milwaukee street. After he was put out of the saloon, he indulged in the practice of throwing stones and bricks through the windows, one of which hit a man on the head, making a severe wound. The parties thus assailed gave him a severe thrashing. We have not heard that any of the parties have been arrested.

Nicholson Pavement.—A petition was presented to the Common Council last evening, signed by a large number of the taxpayers on West Milwaukee street, asking the council to take immediate measures to lay down the Nicholson pavement upon that street. The matter was referred to the Aldermen of the First Ward.

Shall It Be Wood or Iron?—The Mayor has called a public meeting of citizens, at the Court Room next Monday evening, to determine whether the new bridge, that it is proposed to build, shall be of wood, or iron.

Goods Going East.—Messrs. Payne, Hastings & Co. are shipping considerable quantities of their woolen goods to Pittsburgh, Pa. This is the way the west ought to do on an extensive scale. The wool is grown here, the power is here, and the provisions are grown upon our own soil.

Cleaning the Streets.—The business men on Main and Milwaukee streets are busy at work cleaning up the streets, and teams are hauling the refuse away.

From New York.—New York, April 8.—Michael and Mary Wall had a fearful fight at their home in Brooklyn last night. Mary threw a kerosene lamp at her husband and nearly fractured his skull. The lamp broke, the kerosene exploded setting fire to her clothes and she was fatally burned.

The real test is in the baking.

Other Baking Powders may make broad claims, but when it comes to the production of real delicious biscuits, cakes and pastry proves its real worth. This is because of its much greater leavening power and the strict purity of its ingredients.

It costs only a trifle more than the cheap and big can brands and much less than the Trust Baking Powder.

MULES NOT HARD TO HANDLE.

Whole Secret is in Knowing How to Do It, According to Army Officer.

Horse and mule men at the stock yards stood in admiration the other afternoon while the soldiers of Battery A and B, Second United States artillery, loaded 13 cars of mules in 25 minutes. It was a new record on the loading docks, and it wasn't accomplished by any unusual methods either. Nor was the mule driver's vocabulary resorted to. How did they do it? The lieutenant simply called the roll and the mules responded to their names.

"Nigger," called an officer, and a little black mule ambled up.

"Now, Mollie, you're next; now Cyclone," and Cyclone came like a cyclone.

If a mule was refractory a few men in khaki took hold of him and pushed and shoved him into place.

"No wonder," said an envious mule driver, "they know their mules; they couldn't do them all that way."

"That so?" said a non-commissioned officer. "I guess you could. It's all in knowing how. You never want to flinch around a mule. Never look back when you leave him. After you know how, mules are easier to handle than horses."—Kansas City Times.
